

We would like to invite you to an interesting and forward-looking Coaching and Supervision Congress. Coaches, supervisors and researchers who are experts from practice and academic theory from many different regions in Europe will reflect on possibilities of coaching in the VUCA world as well as on adequate solutions. Ever increasing complexity and ambiguity as well as the ensuing volatility and uncertainty in the world we live and work in demands new, innovative commitment from all of us and calls for the development of effective concepts and approaches. Developing skills for recognizing and pooling new potential in order to meet the requirements of a working population in coaching processes and secure their quality of life is an exciting task. We, coaches, supervisors and researchers in this sector, tackle these challenges together.

We are looking forward to your active involvement and to the contributions of many renowned speakers and inspiring minds. The success of our joint congress will become visible in enriching and empowering competence which we will be able to use to the benefit of all of us and people entrusted to us.
